MARPLE-NEWTOWN

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

NEWTOWN SQUARE, PENNSYLVANIA

FOREWORD

These are times of crises. Not only world-wide, but personal crises are becoming increasingly difficult to face and solve. Education is the tool which will enable our generation to find solutions to life's problems. Thus, our endeavors at school must be placed at the forefront of life's worth-while activities.

An impressive change has taken place at Marple-Newtown Senior High School. Due to the enlargement of the school building and multiple improvements, our school is now more fully equipped to prepare us for the future. Change, symbolized by the Greek letter Δ (delta), has been chosen as the most appropriate theme for the school year 1965-66. Evidence of this theme is inscribed within the cover of this book. To witness Marple-Newtown's year of change, one has only to turn the pages.

Marple-Newtown's year of change.
 Change, the Greek letter delta.
 change . . .
 from an empty hallway . . .
 from the concentration of a solitary workman.
 Suddenly . . . people.
 Chattering, laughing, rushing.
 Choking the hallway.
 Severe hunger pangs . . . relieved.
 A quiet talk in spite of noisy surroundings.
 Have you heard? . . . Seniors are humble!
 . . . but not very.

A NEW, EMPTY BUILDING
— SUDDENLY FILLED WITH PEOPLE

SO MUCH TO LEARN

Change . . . new concepts in teaching:
team teaching, guest speakers,
lecture halls, resource centers . . .
the college techniques.
. . . but no substitute
for studying.

New efforts on the student's part to learn.

Teamwork often solves a problem.

Individual research brings enlightenment.

slide rule, bunsen burner, dictionary . . .
tools of the trade.

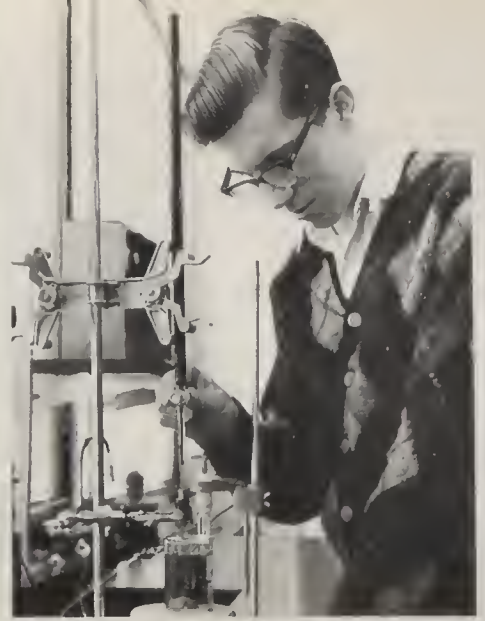

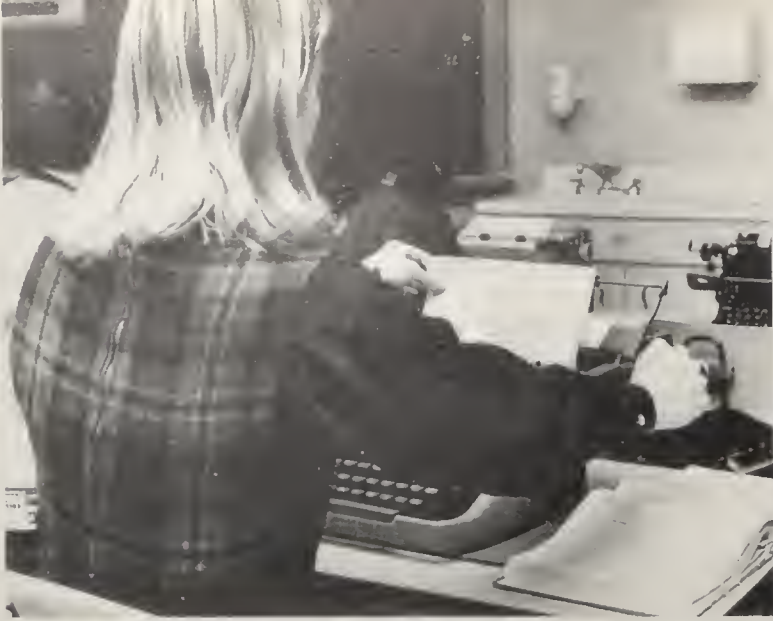

SO MUCH TO DO

Change . . . more happens at M-N than almost anywhere else.
 Serious studying . . .
 then . . .
 Even a school day has its lighter side.
 A joke and a laugh.
 The crayon crowd . . .
 learning by observation.
 Did I act like that when I was little?
 Extracurricular activities.
 Agonized spectators . . .
 Who has the ball?
 Senior antics!
 Can you count how many squeezed in?
 Eight, I think.

Change . . . can you believe that these people started as Freshmen?
 Ideas and skills have been acquired.
 Intricate experiments taught a valuable principle.
 A new world is viewed through the microscope.
 Typing is neat, fast.
 One step away from a secretarial job.
 Welding . . . speaks for itself with a brilliant flash.
 All this leads . . . to a job
 . . . a college acceptance.
 A new and changed life.

ACTIVITIES

President Joseph Hoplamazian presides over a meeting of the Student Council.

Under the leadership of President Joe Hoplamazian the Student Council officers combined their efforts to solve our problems.

Controversial was the word to describe this year's Student Council. For the first time in six years three classes were housed under one roof in the Senior High School. The Council represented more age groups, opinions and activities than ever before. It tackled problems basic to the reorganization of student government and was constantly in the throes of such innovations as all-school plays in place of class plays, organization of Student Council on a non-class basis, and the evaluation of suggestions to replace class trips with activity trips. The Council members continued to provide services and leadership by running the school store, the Charity Drive and Dance, and other activities.

Despite diverse representation, Student Council was able to pass many recommendations on to the administration concerning vital school problems. This year's Student Council President, Joe Hoplamazian, and the faculty advisor, Mrs. Egner, can take great pride in the fact that the Council's decisions were backed by an exceptional majority of a large and many-faceted student body.

Sue Rich, Vice-President of the Student Council, supervises the operation of the school store.

ACADEMIC ACES

Faculty advisor Mrs. Levin and President Richard Groening preside over a meeting of the National Honor Society.

Klaus Breetz is aided by Lisa Springer, head of the National Honor Society Tutoring Service.

The officers of the National Honor Society are David Ehst, Vera Gerken, President Richard Groening, Nancy Tasca, Diana Paarz, and (missing) Joseph Hoplamazian.

The Hi-Q team is an organization established for the advertisement of intellect. The five members are all experts in the art of quick recall of factual materials and can handle themselves well under pressure. They wield their talents by competing with the other schools in the area on a series of "Scott's Hi-Q" programs. The highest-ranking team of the year receives a worthwhile prize, a college scholarship grant for a deserving student in their school. The members of Hi-Q are often in the spotlight of publicity. Three chosen students extend Marple-Newtown's reputation for scholastic ability further by the television program "It's Academic," which is patterned after the well-known "College Bowl." This year's squad was as sharp as tacks and built up a record which will dazzle members in subsequent years.

The Scott's Hi-Q team consisting of Jane Brittain, Richard Groening, Bruce Miller, Jack Multin, and faculty advisor Mr. John Metka match their scholastic abilities with students from other schools.

Scholarship, character, leadership, and service are the four key words on which the Marple-Newtown Chapter of the National Honor Society is based. Membership is one of the distinct honors available to Marple-Newtown students. The criteria for membership include the aforesaid qualities of character in addition to an excellent academic record. At the annual induction ceremony in March, recognition is given to these intellectually prominent students by presenting a membership card and a gold key to them.

Under the able direction of Mrs. Levin, National Honor Society members organize the valuable grade-saving tutorial service which benefits many desperate students. One period a week is utilized by each member to personally tutor a failing fellow-student. To show its diversity, the Honor Society also takes charge of refreshments at home basketball games and wrestling matches.

With this year's outstanding membership, the Marple-Newtown chapter can be said to enrich the quality of the National Honor Society.

MEMORIES ARE MADE OF THIS

The production of a major publication is an awesome task. The staff of this year's yearbook attacked the job with ideas of their own and the invaluable aid of Mr. Capriotti. At the end of the 1964-65 school year an editorial staff was chosen and subsequently conducted meetings throughout the summer. During these meetings the theme of CHANGE was decided upon as most representative of Marple-Newtown Senior High School. This theme became embedded in the attitudes of the staff: each decision was weighed according to its uniqueness and the improvement it offered when compared to the best that previous years had produced.

Each innovation was the result of a sharp, loud struggle between conflicting editors. Piercing sounds issued almost daily from the new but quickly cluttered yearbook room, which served as the battleground for the "fighting" members of the staff. It also served as a home to those who worked late into the night in order to meet approaching deadlines.

The result, which is now being scrutinized by the reader, is a composite of the best work of many school talents. Its quality compels the current editorial staff to issue a challenge to the staff of Memories '67 to improve upon what has been done this year.

Co-editors Jane Brittain and Larry Langan consult faculty advisor Mr. Capriotti about choice of pictures.

Layout Editor Barbara Gramley and Art Editor Kay Chudnoff design the yearbook pages with the assistance of their staff.

Typing Editor Sandy Lisa and her staff do all the yearbook typing, and Business Manager Rusty Owens and her staff handle Pub-Pac sales.

Captions Editor Bonni Martin and her staff create a headline for one of the layouts.

Karen Green, Senior Portrait Editor, gives tintype assignments to her staff.

Pat Manges, Girls' Sports Editor, and the sports staff choose pictures for the sports section.

SCOOPS AND SCRIBBLINGS

The Mar-News staff discusses feature articles from back issues.

Mar-News editor Jack Mullin advises his staff of their assignments.

Marple-Newtown's training ground for future journalists and reporters is the Mar-News, the school newspaper. This year's ambitious goal of publishing twelve editions was attained, but not without the hard work of Editor-in-Chief Jack Mullin and his assistants, Dave Riley and Bruce Siddons.

The Mar-News was always a diversified publication. Feature Editor Vera Gerken kept her readers aware of the quality of our student body by highlighting outstanding students, while Sports Editor Randy Williamson gave knowledgeable reports on the exploits of M-N athletes. News Editor Caroline Schaible reported on the other facets of Marple-Newtown school life. The editorials were a bright spot this year. They were consistently pertinent and concise. With the expansion of our school, it would have been impossible to keep up with everything that went on without the aid of the Mar-News.

Man must record his thoughts to make them immortal, not only to other men, but to himself. Octagon, Marple-Newtown's literary magazine, was founded on this principle six years ago; and since its organization, many students have successfully used Octagon as a vehicle for literary and artistic expression.

Nancy Tasca (literary editor) and Harriet Colbert (art editor) worked with Mrs. Stevenson and Mr. Roth to publish two editions of Octagon this year. Material was submitted by the English teachers from their classes, and members of the literary (editorial) staff were given writing assignments in order to insure the production of a magazine broad in scope. The editorial staff reviewed each piece of writing and attempted to maintain the highest possible standard of student work in Octagon. Art work was employed to illustrate the stories and poems, and front and back cover designs gave a finishing touch to the magazine.

Octagon sponsor Mrs. Stevenson advises Editor Nancy Tasca.

HIGH STANDARDS AND HIGH SPIRITS

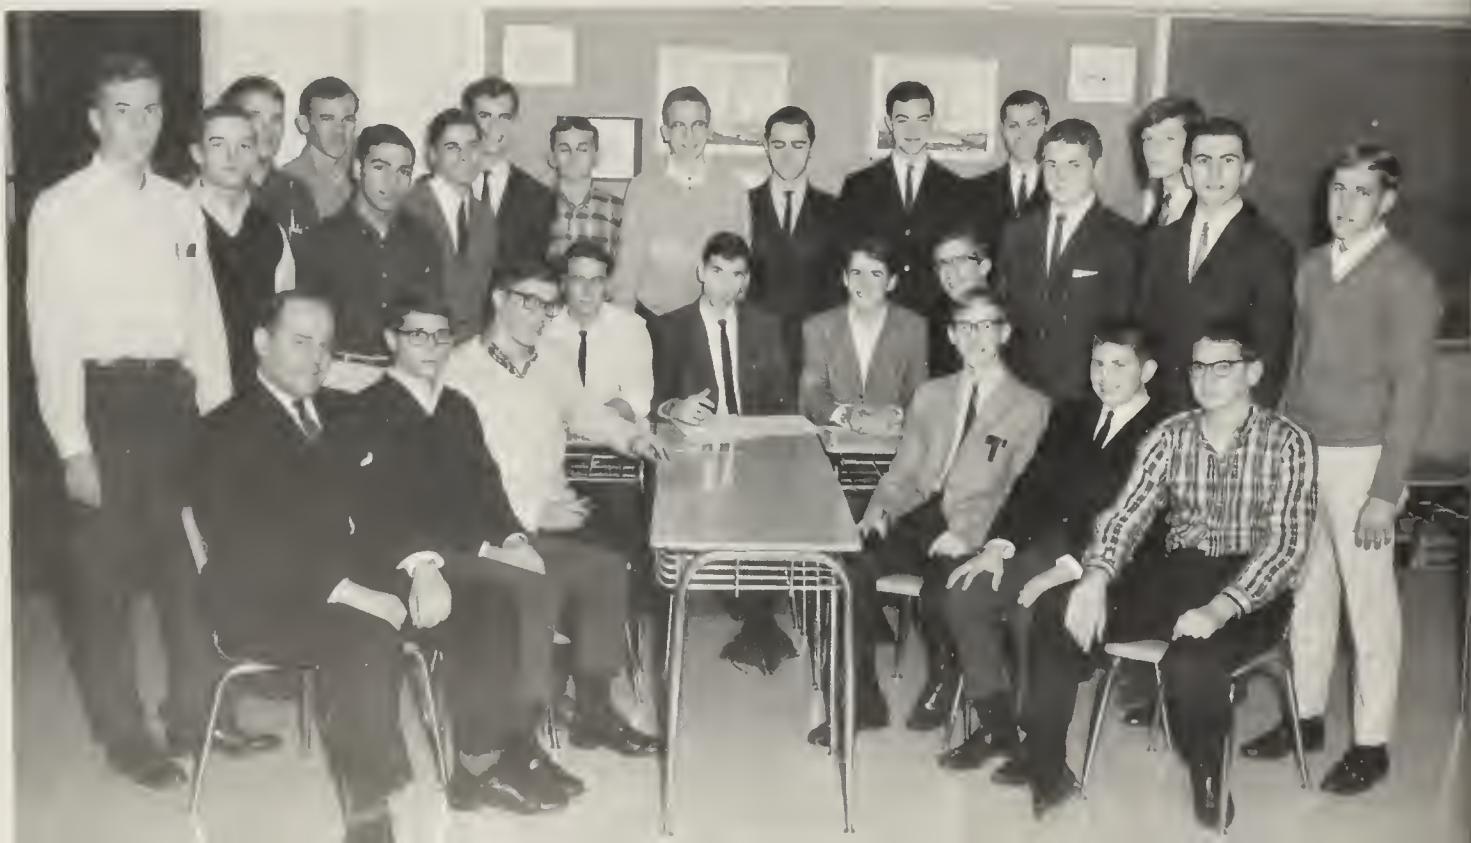

Interact President Larry Langan and Board of Directors record the progress of their candy sale.

Interact is a service club sponsored by the Rotary Club for the specific purpose of promoting human understanding. The members consider it an honor to participate. They were recommended for membership in their sophomore and junior years by their history teachers.

President Larry Langan and his fellow-members did an outstanding job this year of carrying out the organization's purpose. At the community level, the club helped with the restoration of the locally renowned Massey House. On a national level, the members corresponded with other Interact Clubs across the country and in South America. On the all-important international level the club supported an orphaned Chinese girl in Hong Kong. In order to raise the funds for this project, Interact members fed the "starving" students at basketball games and wrestling matches. This organization even found time to perform an outstanding school service: it bought our mascot a new Tiger suit!

The Interact Club's record shows both school and community activities.

The Tri-Hi-Y builds character through community and school activities.

Mrs. Minnacci plans the annual candy sale with the Tri-Hi-Y officers.

One of Marple-Newtown's many worthwhile activities for which girls strive in their junior and senior years is the Tri-Hi-Y. This year, under its dedicated president Diana Paarz, Tri-Hi-Y was transformed from a nearly dead institution into a vital and active school function. Students took notice of the club when its pledges went through a scandalous but good-natured hazing. This and the initiation dinner ceremony served to unite the girls for a year filled with satisfying accomplishment. The club again sold mints for the Community Y of Eastern Delaware County, with which it is affiliated. Other activities included making picture scrap-books for children in the hospital, writing letters to soldiers in Viet Nam, collecting toys for underprivileged children, and providing posters for each sports event at Marple-Newtown. With various fund-raising activities the girls supported a Korean orphan named Kim. A fun spot in Tri-Hi-Y activities was the Sadie Hawkins Dance. The reputation, begun by the hazing, for outlandish costumes was firmly established with this bright and successful event.

President Pat Manges, other American Field Service officers, and exchange students hold a tea for a visiting lecturer.

Marianne Young makes a sale in the AFS-sponsored book store.

The American Field Service has as one of its aims the support of American foreign exchange students.

Klaus Breetz was this year's addition to Marple-Newtown's exemplary line of foreign exchange students. His presence at our school lent another fascinating side to scholastic life. Those most fascinated were the admiring female population of the school. The boys had their reward, however, when this popular German boy was joined later by an exciting new Swedish girl, Lena Siden.

Which organization made all this possible? American Field Service! President Pat Manges and Treasurer Renee Holtzin kept the members busy through the entire year by dreaming up schemes to raise money, thus making it possible for M-N to continue the practice of cultivating international understanding. Bond-selling, bake sales, and operation of the paper-back book store were alternated with the more direct activities of finding a home for future A.F.S.'ers and giving teas for visiting foreign lecturers. Besides making the two exchange students feel at home, the major achievement of A.F.S. has been raising the funds to support a Marple-Newtown student abroad next year.

The Wide World staff decides on feature articles for the next issue.

Eva Reinersmann (German Editor), Sue King (French Editor) and Jodie Faier (Spanish Editor) discuss future issues of Wide World with their sponsors Dr. Colli and Mrs. Woerner.

A foreign language newspaper such as Wide World is almost unique in Delaware County. The paper was set up on an experimental basis to build an interest in foreign languages. It was hoped that classroom learning in these languages could be put to work in a practical way: writing and reading articles about topics of current interest.

Wide World has undergone great improvement since its conception three years ago. Under the direction of Dr. Colli and Mrs. Woerner, this formerly insignificant paper has taken on a new importance for students. Since there are absolutely no English words, the student is challenged to decipher not only the language he may be studying but other languages as well, in the practically painless form of word games, puzzles, articles and even editorials. One aspect of the paper that has a special fascination for many readers is the occasional Russian article, done with an authentic Russian typewriter.

INTERNATIONAL INTEREST

PARLEYS AND POLITICIANS

Since heated discussion and controversy are common among Marple-Newtown students, it is not surprising that the M-N Debate Team should possess a winning talent for formal argument. Before entering competition, team members practiced their skills against each other by debating the awesome topic "Resolved: that the Federal Government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration in labor management disputes in basic industries." The best negative and affirmative teams from this home competition were sent to Temple University for the annual forensic contest. They also took part in a debate session at Levittown, in the District 8 play-off tournament at Norristown, and at the Liberty Bell competition at the University of Pennsylvania. To pass the time between these events, the Debate Team competed with teams from several local high schools.

Caroline Schaible conducts a meeting of the Political Science Club.

Political Science Club chairman Pete Miller, co-chairman Caroline Schaible and sponsor Mrs. Shaber makes plans for future speakers.

Those students who tend to view their environment through politically oriented eyes can get a taste of civic life in Marple-Newtown's Political Science Club. This year's interested students met twice a month and discussed topical events. In fact, they could often be heard arguing, like true politicians, over the opinions of the guest speakers, local Democrats and Republicans. The program also included club trips to outside discussions or debates. A most memorable event was the participation in the Civic Forum League for Secondary School Students, which was held in March at Temple University. Chairman Pete Miller, Co-Chairman Caroline Schaible, and the other delegates to this Forum contributed their political talents to the formation of a model United States House of Representatives.

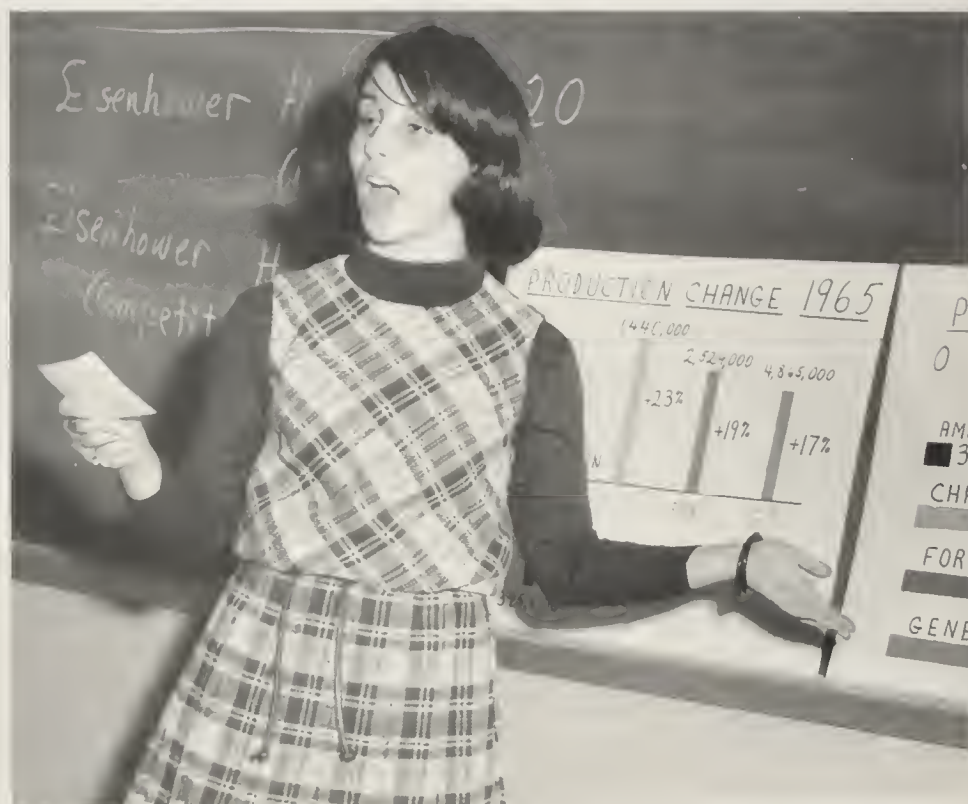

Forensic team members review their speeches for a tournament.

A relatively new activity at Marple-Newtown has uncovered a wealth of genuine talent. Under Mr. Enck's tutelage the forensic team achieved a solid record of awards and merits during its first year as a formal organization.

What is a Forensic Team? Members enter such events as oral interpretation, poetry and prose reading, extemporaneous speaking, and other types of speech competition at tournaments. During their speeches, they are given a point score for such things as content, enunciation, audience communication, and even personal appearance.

Marple-Newtown's participants were undaunted by the newness of the activity. At Norristown, they rose through preliminary and district competition to the ultimate state level. At Temple University, competing for school honors with students from New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware, the squad proved the prowess of M-N students.

The team was composed of the actively competing varsity and of junior varsity members, who attended tournaments in the capacity of learning spectators. Although most members were drawn from Mr. Enck's speech classes, the team looks forward to even more success with unrestricted, school-wide membership.

SPEECHES AND STAGECRAFT

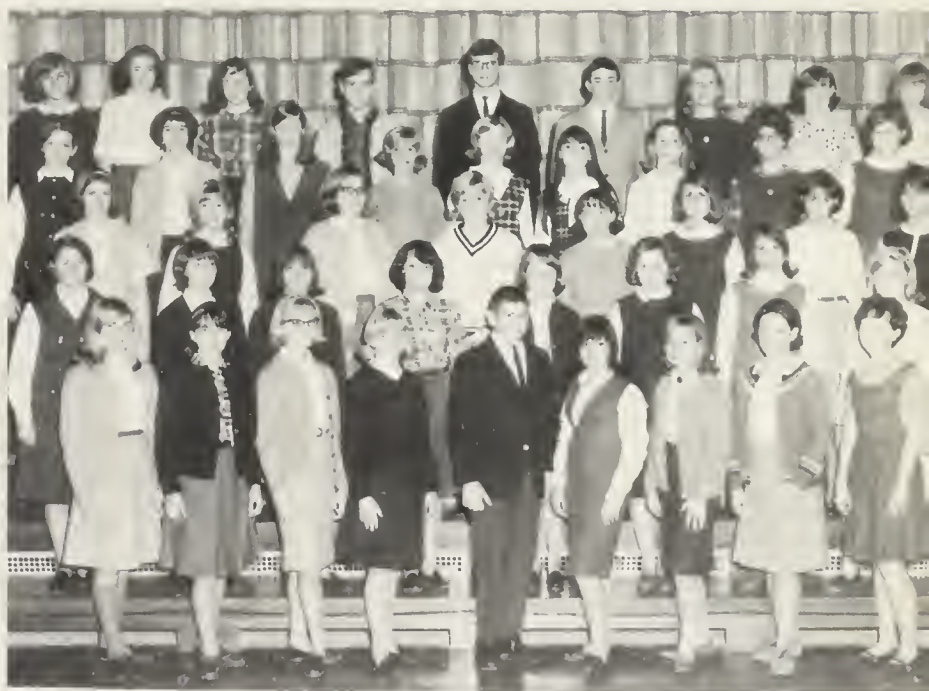

Thespian initiates gained membership through one hundred hours of work.

Providing both obvious and subtle services to the dramatic arts at Marple-Newtown, the Thespians had a busy and rewarding first year at the Senior High School. Thespian Troupe 2508 is a member of a nation-wide high school dramatics organization the National Thespian Society. M-N's troupe was founded two years ago at Paxon Hollow by the members of Pleiades Dramatic Society under the direction of their sponsor Mrs. Diaco, who realized a long-standing dream when the organization moved to the Senior High.

Cooperating closely with other seniors, juniors and sophomores, the Thespians provided production coordination for the class plays; ticket sales, publicity, costume, props and painting committees were mainly comprised of Thespian members. Many cast and stage crew members were also Thespians. The organization also contributed permanent goods, such as wardrobe closets, make-up equipment, new costumes, and furniture for future sets.

Many people do not realize the selectivity of this group. To achieve the goal of membership, students had to be interviewed before their selection as apprentices. After donating one hundred hours of faithful service in this capacity, they became members. Each subsequent hundred hours were rewarded with a star and a great deal of satisfaction.

Thespian apprentices learn about the theatre through experience.

The Amateur Radio Club President designs a circuit while the other club members look on.

The Amateur Radio Club was added this year to M-N's expanding list of activities. Before receiving the long-awaited equipment, the members met in code and theory classes supervised by Mr. Burleigh. When the equipment finally arrived the boys began actual construction of a radio, with the intention of contacting other radio fans all over the country.

Lights up!

Stage Crew members construct a flat.

The real base of M-N's successful theatrical productions has been the Stage Crew Manager Gary Thomas led the group in skillful performance of such essential duties as arranging scenery and adjusting lighting. Stage Crew services were also required for all assembly and other programs taking place in the school's auditorium. Fortunately, Mr. Enck had produced a group which was knowledgeable and apt in its activities.

SKILLS AND SERVICES

A beautiful, new library has attracted more and more interested students to the Student Librarian Association. Those who have considered this field for future occupation received valuable technical experience. Mrs. Riley and Mrs. Rich were frequently released from such tasks as shelving books, filing pamphlets, and working at the main circulation desk by members who devoted study periods, lunch, and free time before and after school to this necessary activity. This has contributed to an efficient, well-run library, which is one mark of a good school, by permitting the librarians to devote their talents to more complicated and time-consuming duties.

Library aides work at the main circulation desk.

Industrial Arts Club Officers meet with sponsor Mr. Bordenkircher.

Projects are planned in the print shop.

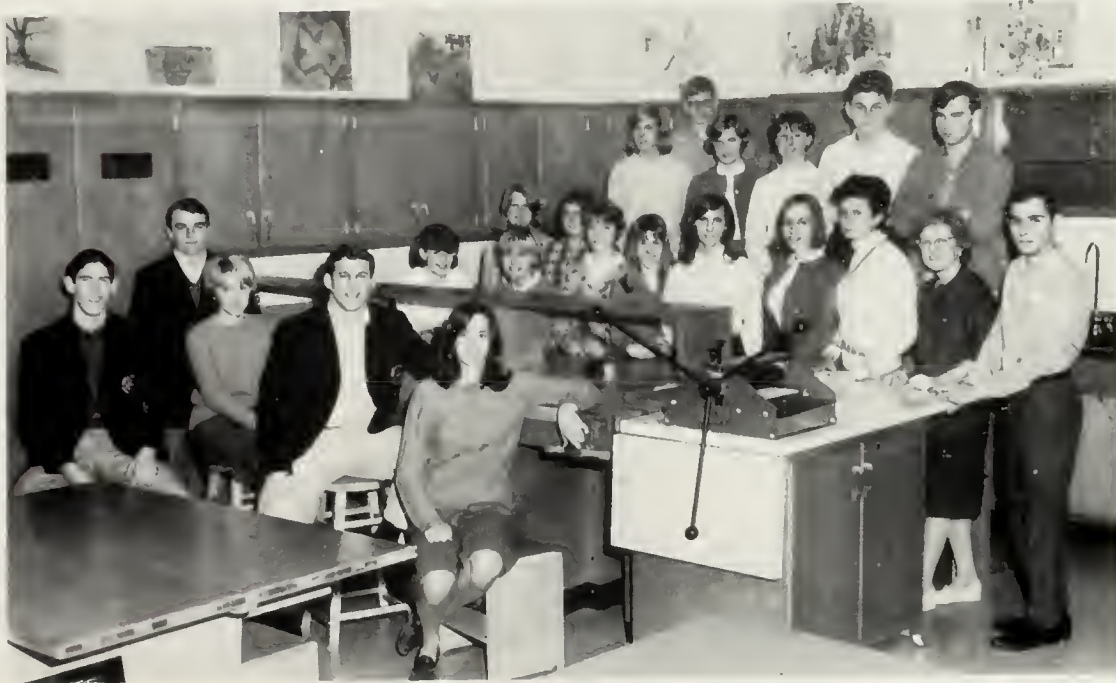

Industrial Arts Club members work in the wood shop.

With thirty-four members in its first year, the Industrial Arts Club has proved itself to be a growing interest at Marple-Newtown. The purpose of the Club is to further the knowledge and skills of industrial arts. Female members are given much-needed insight into the use of tools and industrial materials.

The club members worked on projects of their choice during nights when the Graphic Arts and Printing, Mechanical Drawing, Metal, Wood, and Electronics Shops were open. President Dave Worton and faculty advisors Mr. Bordenkircher and Mr. Stauffer contemplated affiliating their young organization with the national American Industrial Arts Association, Inc. In the business meetings, held twice a month, the club members planned, designed and later built a concession stand on the football field. The funds for this undertaking were earned through such outside employment as reconditioning houses for sale.

TOOLS AND TALENT

The Art Club enables talented students to express themselves through artistic mediums.

Mrs. Morton and Art Club president Jim Morphasis work together with the other officers on a mural.

Creativity and development were the attributes of this year's Art Activity Club members. The club's relaxed attitude was due only to the fact that genius needed this sort of atmosphere in which to blossom forth. With a larger school to decorate, member artists were kept busy. A much increased membership, however, was able to handle all the extra bulletin boards and showcases, as well as the usual lobby displays. The posters which reminded students of various drives and called their attention to election campaigns were contributed by the club. When school needs were fulfilled, members could turn their talents to personal projects or group discussion of art, artists and art techniques. With art as an important major in the regular school curriculum, the quality of the Art Activity Club work rose sharply.

The Chess Club members meet after school to practice for tournaments.

Steve Marcucci attempts to throw Rick Brenckman.

Chess Club sponsors Miss Oneil and Mr. La Penta advise the club's president, Bill Epright on a move.

Believe it or not, the purpose of this year's Chess Club was to have fun while playing chess. Faculty advisor Miss Oneil insisted that its second goal was to teach people how to play in the first place, but observation revealed that the game often moved its participants to rather unintellectual expressions of pure delight whenever a particularly brilliant move was made. President Bill Epright led his team twice in competition with Haverford High School. The second encounter was more successful than the first.

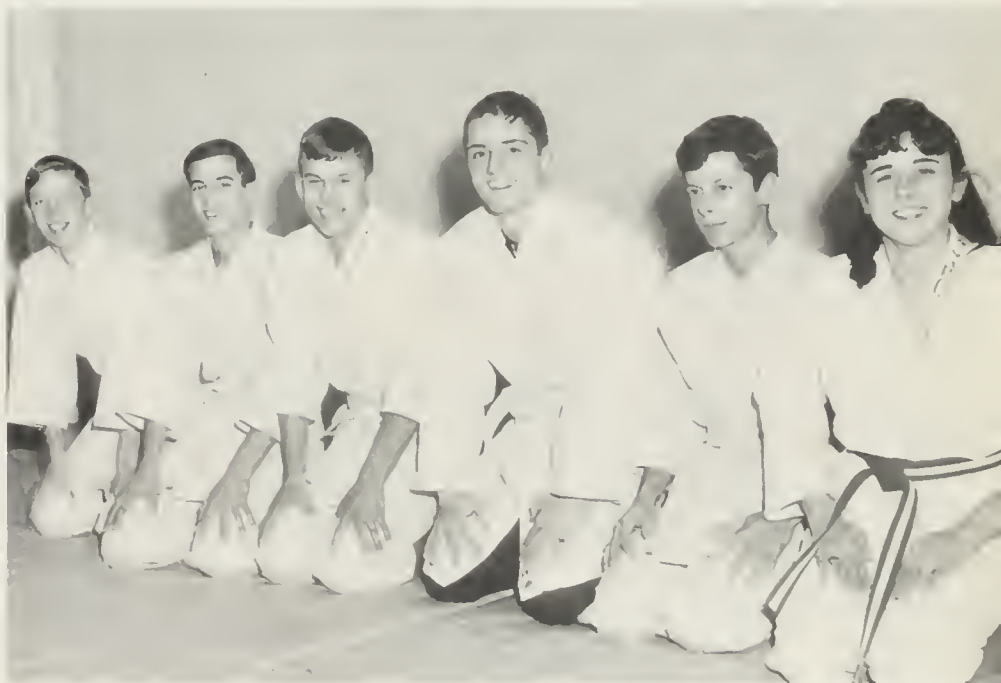

The Judo Club — Marple-Newtown's avant-garde organization.

An exotic new club was organized in the fall of this year of change for Marple-Newtown students. The art of self-defense, Judo, was an intriguing addition to the school's already varied activities.

The members of the Judo Club were taught and supervised by Miss Otten, who was herself a new addition to the school. Unlike most coaches, she maintained a very active part in competition. The pioneer officers of the club were: Parker Williams, President; Doug Pickell, Vice-President; Sue Tice, Secretary-Treasurer.

A few months of inactivity due to lack of space and mats soon gave way to regular meetings. Why was this a club instead of a sport? Judo is not seasonal; it can be undertaken at any time of the year. It also had to be learned from scratch; the current physical education program did not offer an elementary course in Judo. The club members first learned such skills as breakfalls and simple throws. From there they gradually worked towards more complex throws in order to progress in rank.

Judo Club instructors in their ghees kneel in order according to rank.

BLACK BELTS AND BISHOPS

The Future Business Leaders of America prepare for the business world through school and local activities.

The Future Business Leaders of America is a national organization for students enrolled in business subjects. The Marple-Newtown chapter was designed to meet some of the future needs of students who plan business careers. Representatives of business, the professions, and education gave club members opportunities to participate in local projects. The students became well-acquainted with and were able to adapt to the business environment of which they would soon be a part. Additional activities which developed the necessary leadership, competence, and citizenship of the members were managing the refreshment concession at football games and typing for the business office.

The FBLA officers keep records of the club's financial situation.

BUSINESS TOMORROW

DECA officers plan a format for the next meeting.

Distributive Education club members get on-the-job training.

The Distributive Education Club of America at Marple-Newtown represented an important facet of school life. Mr. Philip Robinson guided the members towards their goal of becoming future leaders in the important fields of marketing and distribution. The club activities were an extension of the Distributive Education program in school. Vocational understanding and leadership were developed by such activities as the frequent and highly popular pretzel sales, in which every member participated. Other activities included sponsoring a dance and the Third Annual Employee Banquet.

Trade specialists acted as guest speakers to give members a well-rounded picture of future possibilities. Success was again a trademark of the club: the boy and girl who displayed particular excellence in Distributive Education received the Lawrence Park Businessmen's Association Award. President Buddy Martin and his fellow officers attended a convention at the Sheraton Hotel in March. Amid their exciting activities and accomplishments, this thoughtful group took time to prepare a Thanksgiving basket which was given to a needy family.

The Future Teachers of America had the important task of acquainting its members with the requirements for becoming teachers, with the names of schools which could best prepare them for this vital field, and with the teaching career itself — its problems and satisfactions. Occasional guest speakers, visits to local colleges and observation of teaching methods in local elementary schools combined to impress the students with the many little extra details that make the difference between the average teacher and the good teacher. President Jean Botta led the group in such activities as a bake-sale, collection of paper-back books which were sent to Viet-Nam, a farewell party for Mrs. Hill, (who had been co-sponsor of the group, along with Miss Woods) and finally, a successful spring Hootenanny.

STEPS INTO THE FUTURE

Those students who were wise enough to look to the future often chose the Future Homemakers of America to aid in their development. Under the able direction of Miss Fuoco, members were alerted of vital factors which contribute equally to the efficient running of a home or to a career in some field of home-making. Such school-year activities as giving knitting lessons after school, sponsoring faculty Christmas parties, making sewing patterns for the Red Cross and operating the annual Multiple-Sclerosis drive helped mold members into successful participants in their important field after graduation.

The Future Nurses of America under the direction of the school nurse, Mrs. Mannino, performed a variety of health services for the school and the community this year. Many girls were able to discover their life's calling through this activity; some others found out that nursing was what they wanted to do least in life. The services which helped them decide this major issue included patterning of cerebral palsy patients, assisting with the T.B. X-ray units, and working on the Easter seals campaign and Red Cross projects. Guest speakers from colleges, hospitals and different branches of the military gave talks at the meetings. Members of the club devoted their free periods to aid in the health room and many did volunteer work in community hospitals and nursing homes. At the end of the term a party was held and the seniors were presented with their pins.

MELODY MAKERS

President Wally Roberts, Mr. Gwirtz and other officers reveal the lively, fun-loving spirit of the Choir that brings good times as well as serious performances.

The Marple-Newtown Concert Choir represents a cross-section of the student body unified through their musical experiences.

One of the largest, noisiest, and most enjoyable school organizations was this year's Concert Choir. More than one hundred members practiced with Mr. Gwirtz every morning. The results of these efforts were performances of high quality for school assemblies, concerts, PTA meetings and a variety of outside civic and church organizations. The Choir's expansion provided the depth necessary to perform more complex and magnificent compositions; particular strength was noted in the male sections.

The Chorale, a new organization, was composed of twenty to twenty-five select voices from the Choir. Members met evenings to rehearse and polish selections of challenging difficulty or simple beauty, which were performed both independently and in concurrence with Choir performances. The already outstanding musical quality of the Chorale was enhanced by the fact that several members studied further by private voice lessons.

The Chorale warms up before a performance.

Marple-Newtown's newest musical organization, the Organ Club, was comprised of a small group of students interested in the study and structure of the organ. Many members practiced after school on the school organ with Club president and organizer Doug Guy. They were also able to travel to organ factories and attend such functions as church organ recitals.

Members of the Organ Club, led by Doug Guy, often practice during the afternoon on the school organ.

Under the direction of Mr. Bustard, the Marple-Newtown Symphony Orchestra rehearses for its next concert.

The Marple-Newtown Symphony Orchestra provided a great amount of audience-pleasing entertainment this year. Daily practice, under the direction of Mr. Bustard, revealed some real talent, which was displayed at school assemblies and called upon to brighten many business functions of the school as well. Due to the mastery of varied types of music, the orchestra was able to please a maximum number of people. Outstanding individuals represented Marple-Newtown in the Southeastern District and State Orchestra Festivals. There were more representatives this year than last, but they showed no signs of complacency concerning the present quality of their music. Next year promises an even better and more professional sound from these aspiring musicians.

SOUNDS OF MUSIC

The woodwinds lend interest to many compositions with intermingling melodies.

Setting the background with deep tones is the viola-cello-bass section of the orchestra.

The brass section provides lively tones.

The orchestra's violin section is often responsible for the melody.

The drummers of the marching band maintain a steady tempo.

The band provided special music to enliven pep rallies.

The combined efforts of the band and bandfront resulted in well-executed formations on the football field.

Mr. Smith conducted the band on the field and stage.

The Marple-Newtown Band was bigger and better this year. Directed by W. Ronald Smith, who deprived the University of Wisconsin of his talents to come to us, the marching band acquired a new spirit and developed a style characterized by high-step marching and polish. The result was an abundance of well-executed half-time shows. The whole school took a deeper interest in the band this year; the members were clad in new uniforms, which were earned by a student candy sale.

After the football season ended, the marching band became a concert band, performing music which ranged from pep songs for basketball games, to Broadway tunes, to more serious concert compositions.

In addition to playing for school and community activities, this year's band competed in various regional contests. Marple-Newtown's excellent half-time show based on Walt Disney's Mary Poppins was an astonishingly close runner-up in a contest for a trip to the Rose Bowl. The band and bandfront earned ratings of "Superior" in a Harrisburg parade and took second place in the Miss Philadelphia Pageant band competition. Three large, handsome trophies have been added to the school's collection to remind future students of the true quality of the Marple-Newtown Band.

BEST OF THE BRASS

The marching band entertained the football spectators during half-time.

SPIRIT AND STRUTTERS

The Color Guard march in formation displaying the colors of the country, state and school.

The girls of Marple-Newtown's bandfront proved that discipline and femininity can go hand in hand. In addition to performing separately as color guard and major-ettes, all the members of the squad participated in precision drill routines during half-time shows, closely coordinating their efforts with band formations.

This year brought the graduation of the M-N bandfront pioneers, the girls who were the first to train and perform under the direction of Mr. Enck. Those were the days when "Ready, Two, Three, Up!" was a strange new echo in the halls of Paxon Hollow. Through their work and the efforts of every girl who has since become a member of the organization, the bandfront has established itself as an essential part of football games, parades and school spirit at Marple-Newtown.

The Bandfront execute precision drills under the baton of Karen Theil.

The cheerleaders form a chorus line to sing "Hurrah for M-N" following a touchdown.

Jodie Faier, this year's cheerleading captain, and the Tiger say, "Let's have a tiger yell!"

The varsity cheerleading squad, under the direction of Miss DiLauro, boosts the spirit of both school and team.

"Fight, Team! Fight!" This was the battle cry of Marple-Newtown's cheerleaders. They projected their concern for the team into some of the loudest cheering ever heard on the football field; and they continually achieved the highest goal of cheerleading: that of causing the crowd to mirror their enthusiasm. Not all eyes were riveted on the game, though; the varsity cheerleaders were too distracting in the best sense of the word. Good looks and precise coordination caused even opponents to stare. This precision was not due to talent alone; Miss DiLauro, the faculty advisor, drove them to this level of perfection.

As the weather got colder the girls' cheeks got redder; their smiles got broader because the team improved, as if it had been listening to some of their pleas to "fight a little harder." The basketball team received the same treatment, and they, too, responded favorably. The captain, Jodie Faier, was always sure that there was no limit to what a cheer could accomplish, and the improved quality of this year's school spirit confirmed this. The Marple-Newtown supporters echoed her unending theme "We're with you team!"

Sophomore Prom Queen Brenda Burg crowns her successor Jan Rubright, while the court (Cheryl Nonemacher, Kathy Thompson, Debbie Neal, and Lucille Francesco) looks on.

The junior play of the class of '66, The Imaginary Invalid, was so good that it succeeded in bringing the humor of the eighteenth century to the auditorium of the Marple-Newtown High School. Surprise was the universal reaction. Those who came just to be bored were happily disappointed. This successful production of a classic play may have permanently shifted future Marple-Newtown drama fare from "anything, so long as it's modern" to quality.

Who could forget the chills and suspense of the Senior Class Play? The audience was rewarded for its rapt attention with an unusually professional performance. A high school cast can rarely handle the complexities of a psychological thriller, but this year's actors could audibly measure their success by the number of impulsive screams which suddenly knifed through the tense silence. And . . . it was a financial success! This was due to a great deal of hard work by many people, and perhaps to the established reputations of the actors. Such individuals as Bruce Siddons and Carolyn Clyde have progressed from the early days of freshman year dramatics to the seasoned, assured performances which marked their senior acting success.

It was very important for John Morgan to be Earnest: the maiden of his choice would marry no one without that name. When a play begins with a double-edged title like this, one can expect more of the same throughout. It was forthcoming in this Junior Class Play.

The humor was rather corny, but done so expertly that it hit a universal mark. Every actor maintained a straight face even under the attack of duet speeches. One of the best scenes involved two pairs of people coinciding their actions and words, and here the actors did a professional job. Each movement was smooth and precise.

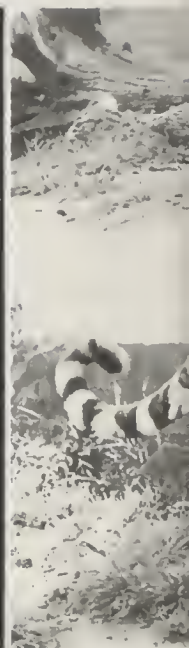

The highlight of the play was the characterization. Andy Sellers portrayed a surprisingly believable play-boy-about-town. Gina Ettore filled the position of a sweet young thing who was not really so delicate. Kate Owens stole many scenes with her brassy portrayal of the socially aggressive, mercenary mama Lady Bracknell. Kate, John Morgan, and Marjorie Dodge are able enough to form an acting troupe, for they seem to fit together no matter what the situation.

Despite the often-times obvious humor and Victorian setting, this play was appreciably modern because it lampooned the ultra-high-society which is present even today.

SPORTS

CONLEY'S CRUSADERS

Co-captains Glen Boens and Brad Jones showed the team how the sport is played.

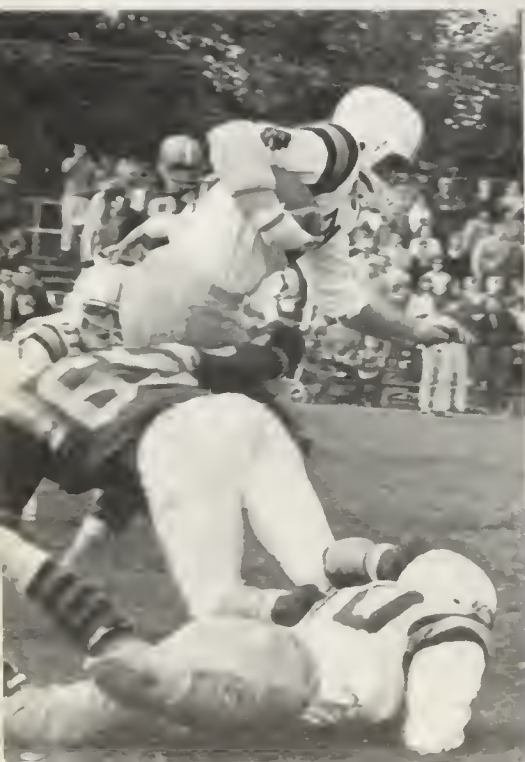

This year marked the formation of a new football section in the suburban area. Leading the team into this rough league was new head coach, Mr. John Conley, assisted by Mr. Williams, Mr. Rush and Mr. Rhodes. The season began with a loss to Conestoga, due to the Tigers' inexperience and inability to maintain a consistent offense. The next week the Tigers travelled to Sun Valley and returned victorious. However, defeat replaced victory when the Tigers encountered Upper Darby. For the first half, the Tigers held their own, but in the second the Royals ran away with the game.

The next opponents were the Chester Clippers, who were defeated by Brad Jones' touchdown and Ed Crombie's extra point. In combat with Haverford, Marple succumbed, allowing Haverford to win, 34-0. The following week the Harriton Rams travelled to Marple-Newton to play a see-saw offensive battle and win after a desperate, last-minute Tiger effort failed. The team played with vigor. The spectators could not help anticipating the game with Ridley Township. Marple played its finest against the Green Raiders, but Ridley outscored Marple, owing to its two bad plays and several unlucky breaks. The Tigers again showed skill against Penncrest, but an extra point failed and Penncrest won, 27-26. On Thanksgiving Day, Marple met its traditional rival at home. Despite an 85 yard touchdown by Bill Zierdon, the Cougars proved their reputation.

Although the Tiger record was not the best, toward the end of the season the team's improvement was clearly visible. With an unbeaten Junior Varsity, prospects are encouraging for Mr. Conley and the team.

BOOT AND SCOOT

This year's soccer team finished with a record of two wins — eight losses — two ties. However it seems that Marple-Newtown has finally arrived in soccer. This sport, coached by Mr. Jones and Mr. Nagle, is relatively new to our school, but each year more experience in the games adds to the Booter's efficiency. The co-captains, Tom Clarke and Carl Pardini, exemplify this. Both players were most valuable to the team and reflected, as did many Seniors, the benefit of four years of interscholastic soccer. Another bright spot was the participation of Marple-Newtown's exchange student, Klaus Breetz. Soccer is the favorite sport in Germany and Klaus added needed talent and experience to our team. The team had victories over Valley Forge and Sun Valley but lost close games to Chester and Coatsville. A number of Juniors and Sophomores complemented this year's Seniors and gave hope of improvement for future seasons.

BULLY FOR YOU

J.V. team after a hard fought game.

Marple-Newton's hockey team enjoyed a winning season in 1965. Captained by Debbie Neal and Kathy Hunter, the team finished first in Suburban Two with an overall record of 6-2-1, the best record of any of the fall sports at M-N.

Due to outstanding coaching by Miss Groff (varsity) and Mrs. Egner (junior varsity) and to the extensive practice sessions, the girls developed many skills. Even though there were no practices on weekends, it was not unusual to find some members of the team doing laps around the hockey field on Sunday afternoons. The girls showed a great deal of interest and achieved an excellent record because of their teamwork. Even before the season began, they started practicing together, and all of them attended the week-long hockey camp. As a team, the girls finished in first place.

One of Marple-Newtown's least noticed and most taxing sports is cross-country. This year's cross-country squad worked hard to maintain a good record. The team was led by co-captains George Seltzer and Gary Grissom and ably coached by Mr. Shores. Injuries hampered the runners throughout the season: George Seltzer was unable to participate for the majority of the season, and Gary Grissom also was hindered by injuries and poor health. The Harriers worked hard to compensate for these disadvantages and finished third in districts and eleventh in sectionals. John Ralph, a newcomer, was a welcome addition. Chuck Lawrence, a sophomore, finished consistently near the top and showed signs of promise for the future.

TICKLE THE TWINE

Marple-Newtown faced a building task in boys' basketball this season. There were only a few players with any varsity experience, and many juniors and sophomores had to acquire this essential factor as the season progressed. The team featured a slow, controlled offense, and generally the Tigers tried to regulate the pace of the game. The best example of this was the home game with Chester, where the team held the ball and stayed close to the league-leading Clippers until the closing minutes. Improvement was noted, and the team looked much different at the season's end than it had in December.

There were several players who made valuable contributions during the season. Steve Knorr did a fine job in the backcourt and John Zudans was strong under the backboards. Although their record was not good, this year's team showed promise, and basketball games remain a popular pastime for the M-N student body.

CHALK UP TWO

Marple-Newtown's girls' basketball team, under the excellent tutelage of Miss Lewis (varsity) and Miss Rose (junior varsity), worked hard during the past year. Although they did not have a winning season, the girls displayed many skills, much enthusiasm, and a great deal of team spirit. The Tig-erettes were captained by seniors Cathy James and Sue Rich, who did a fine job of arousing team determination. This year, the varsity squad consisted of players from all three classes at M-N. The junior varsity was made up of Marple-Newtown juniors and sophomores.

MOVE IN FOR THE PIN

Every winter evening loud grunts and groans were heard as the Marple-Newtown wrestling team practiced long and hard in the new auxiliary gym.

The 1965-66 wrestling season was not too successful in the won-lost records, but has produced a good foundation for next year. The team was mainly comprised of juniors and sophomores who have a lot to look forward to next season.

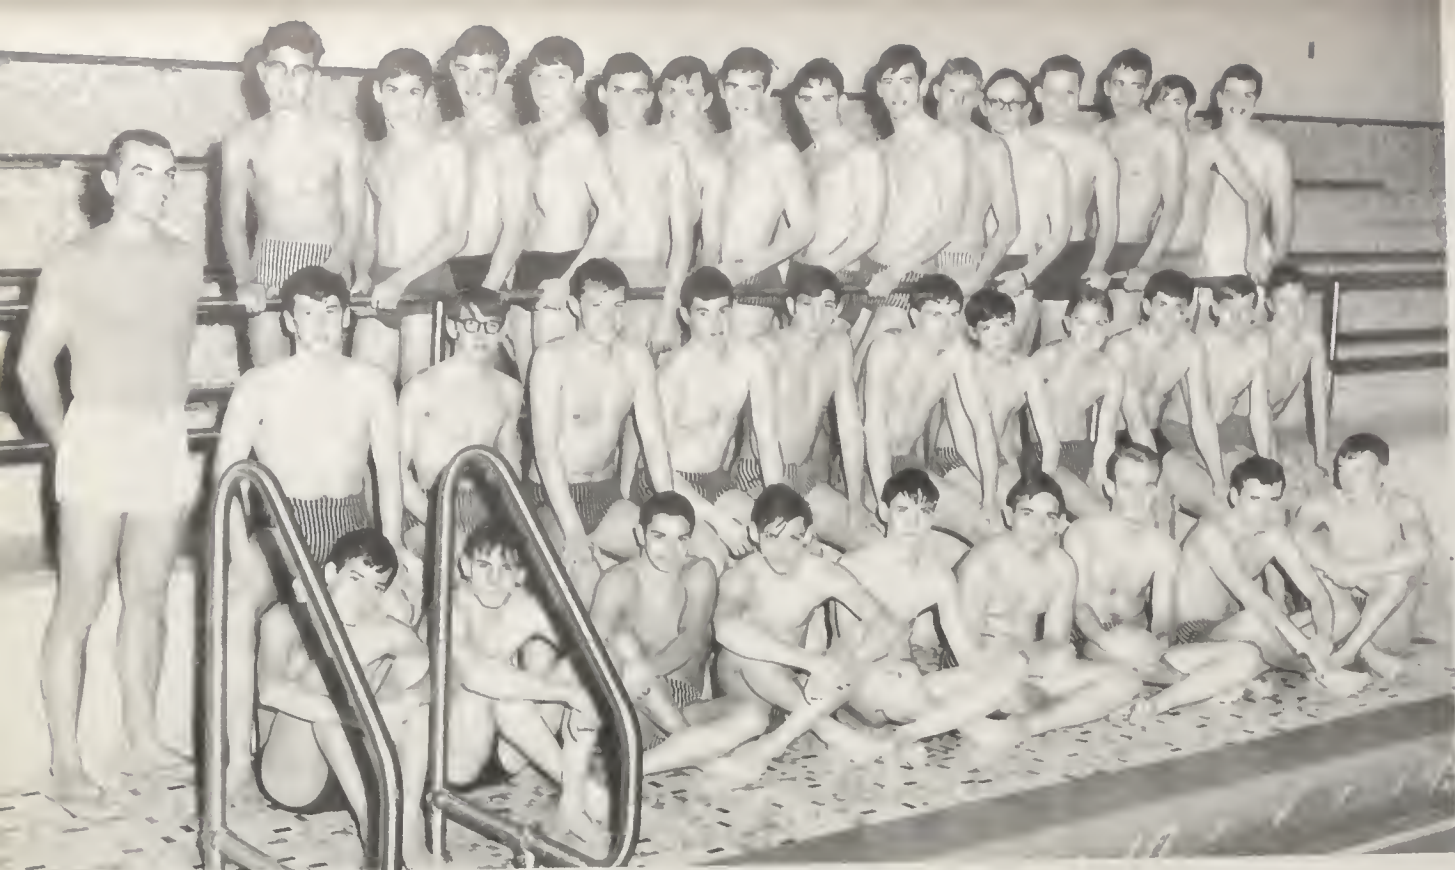

Under coaches Mr. Jones and Mr. Wagner, the team worked hard to prepare for the meets and the Christmas Tournament. Standouts were seniors Doug Pickell and Rick Groening, who added valuable experience, junior John Orsato and sophomore Frank Capone. With the growing support of the fans, the team should make an excellent showing next year in Section II wrestling.

DUEL IN THE POOL

Fine athletics is the keynote for the superior boys' swimming team at Marple-Newtown. This year was the fifth consecutive winning season, and according to co-captains Bill Dorney and Rick Peoples, the team will be even better in the next few years.

The boys began their successful season by defeating Lower Merion, Norristown, and Haverford by stunning margins. Scores of successive meets were somewhat closer, especially with rivals such as Abington and Cheltenham, but the team still managed to come through with victories.

Coach Terry Shearn felt that having a pool at M-N was a tremendous help and that this year's freshmen showed a great deal of promise. The co-captains, who did an excellent job throughout the entire season, agreed with Mr. Shearn, but added that it was the desire possessed by all of the boys that really made the difference.

Marple-Newtown 1965-1966 Girls' Swim Team.

The girls' swimming team has been one of the most outstanding athletic groups ever produced by Marple-Newtown. The girls won the PIAA District I Championship in both 1963 and 1965, and were second by a mere point in 1964. This year, under the coaching of Miss Parkinson and the leadership of co-captains Ann Balls and Barbara Bartlett, the girls continued the long winning streak and brought even more glory to M-N.

The season was not as easy as the 70-7 score of the first meet seemed to indicate. The team faced tough competition from Upper Merion, Abington and Plymouth-Whitemarsh, but was still able to live up to its fine reputation. Having made the trek to Suburban Swim Club for several years, the girls have finally become accustomed to the convenience of holding practice in their own pool. Despite the loss of many valuable seniors, next year's girls' swimming team should be able to uphold the high standards set this year.

THE LITTLE NBA

Marple-Newtown provides an excellent intramural program for those who do not participate in varsity basketball. This year's league, composed of twelve teams, was no exception. As the season progressed the Bats and the Gulls appeared to be the top teams. A tense race for the championship took place as several teams tried to catch the leaders. All participants were striving not only for a good team showing, but for a place on the Intramural All-Star Team. This group opposed the Junior Varsity at the end of the year.

Also a race for top scoring honors occurred with John Ralph, Andy Thompson, and Nelson Braddy in the lead. Several others were close behind in scoring and exhibited excellent team play. The boys all had a lot of fun and greatly enjoyed participating in this fine league.

PEOPLE

OUR SCHOOL'S BACKBONE

Dr. Kermit M. Stover, the Superintendent of Schools, has jurisdiction over all operational matters of the Marple-Newtown Joint School System. In carrying our current educational policies, Dr. Stover works with his administrative assistants, principals, teachers, and other school personnel to provide the high-calibre education that has produced an astonishing rate of success for Marple-Newtown graduates in college and in business.

The Marple-Newtown Joint School Board is composed of fourteen members who have the community's interests in mind as they formulate policy for the school system. They meet twice a month, once in their respective townships and once as a joint committee, to continuously update the operation of the Marple-Newtown Schools.

Dr. Kermit M. Stover, Superintendent of Marple-Newtown Joint School System.

Under the leadership of President William E. Rudloff, the School Board meets to formulate school policy.

Mr. Frederick W. Brown is in charge of pupil services.

Mr. Stephen Oselinsky, Marple-Newtown's administrative assistant for elementary education.

Mr. Thomas Patty directs Marple-Newtown's program for the academically talented.

Dr. William F. Nye, administrative assistant in charge of secondary school activities.

Dr. Julius J. Willa handles Marple-Newtown's finances.

Mr. Howard R. Frederick, Marple-Newtown's director of public relations and personnel.

DECISIONS AND DISCIPLINE

Mr. Vincent J. Sauers, Marple-Newtown High School's principal, coordinates all facets of our high school life.

Tomorrow's Memories will include pleasant thoughts of homework assignments and classes, week-end dates and dances, high school songs and athletic contests. But they will also include a clearer understanding of the advantages of an education in Marple-Newtown Senior High School.

However, what you have learned at school, valuable as it may be, is only a beginning. The end of your high school work merely means the commencement of those experiences that will put to the test the sound principles you have learned.

The best wishes of the administration and faculty go with you as you commence activities which hopefully will result in the betterment of mankind. We are confidently depending on you.

Vincent J. Sauers

Mr. Louis J. Bonder is the assistant principal in charge of student activities.

Mr. Keith Kingsbury is the assistant principal in charge of curriculum.

Mr. Meyers is in charge of the data processing machines.

This year's administrative workers are Miss Rosemary Mollure, Mr. George W. Simon, Mrs. June Cope, Dr. Julius J. Willa, Jr., Mrs. Gale S. Frazier, Mrs. Veronica E. Dancik, and Mrs. Edna E. Correl.

The secretaries of the Main Office are responsible for keeping the office functioning smoothly. They print and publish the daily bulletin which alerts students and faculty about pertinent items and meetings which make each day at Marple-Newtown productive and active. Attendance records, college transcripts and graduation credits are compiled efficiently and accurately by these active workers. The school's policies are issued by them and enacted through them.

The staff of the Business Office was nearly overwhelmed with the increased amount of business which had to be handled to keep the new school operating. What does the Business Office do? Every time a purchase is made by the school, it is made through the Business Office. Obviously, there was a tremendous amount of purchasing this year. In every area of the school one can find a relatively new item. All of these items, from the swimming pool, to the sheets of paper, to cafeteria sales, are accurately recorded in the files of the Business Office.

Mrs. Mary Jane Bonekat, telephone operator, handles all of Marple-Newtown's telephone calls.

The secretaries of the general office are Miss Elsie Scherr, Miss Barbara Taras, and Mrs. Ann Roselli. They provide courteous service in answer to our problems.

"Hand over hand"

Mrs. Edith Thomas, the Guidance Department Secretary, was the person most often consulted by students when problems arose.

Miss Anne J. Speer was always available for a conference.

Mr. Bruce B. Dimmick is the chairman of the Guidance Department.

A school as large as Marple-Newtown is usually very impersonal. Our guidance department managed to refute this popular supposition by molding itself into one of the most personal, individual-oriented systems in the area. Much credit can be directly assigned to this department for having fully coordinated each student's scholastic life. Rosters were geared to individuals and, when necessary were further tailored by counselors to fit more closely to the student's abilities and interests. This meticulous counselor interest was fully utilized by senior students. Being well-acquainted with us, the counselors were able to give us guidelines for planning our futures. Each student was helped to find the college or job in which he has the best opportunity for success and development. Our guidance department has found a method of successfully combining high efficiency with direct effectiveness.

Mr. Edward F. Grubbs gave guidance to students in the first part of the alphabet.

Concerned with students having last names beginning with the letters Go to Op, was Mr. William T. Brown.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

Who are those eminently superior persons who can remain calm despite the confusion of transporting over one-half of Marple-Newtown's massive student body? The bus drivers, that's who! The sometimes unwilling students are collected and deposited at the school buildings with amazing punctuality and regularity. Trips to sports events, extensive grass-cutting, and other extra chauffeuring duties are performed by this reliable squad, which has an extraordinary safety record to its credit.

Mr. Grimsley and his squad could feed an army . . . which is exactly what they did three times a day. How many students were saved from literal starvation by the timely arrival of lunch period? The majority of students took advantage of the wide selection of food to keep themselves going until the end of the school day. Many were pleasantly surprised to find that food that was good for them could also be so tasty. The skill of true culinary artists made this upsurge in quality possible.

There were more debris-scatterers than ever in these hallowed halls this year, but the custodians managed to keep up with them. In order to do this, long hours were spent before and after actual school hours by these diligent workers. Because of them, the many visitors to our school found a building where order and cleanliness prevailed.

The Sophomore Officers are M-N's youngest administrators.

This year's sophomores were put to the test of being the youngest generation of students at the new Senior High. They came through this trial extremely well. In fact, they even showed signs of unusually mature administrative ability.

Among the responsibilities of the Sophomore Officers were the planning of the sophomore prom, play and class trip, the latter of which was slightly more educational than social. Sophomores complained that this could be attributed to the vast numbers of teachers chaperoning with eagle-eyes and bright, thought-provoking questions. In any case, a good time was had by all.

Judging by the capabilities displayed by these officers, upperclass members agreed that the sophomores will be able to more than adequately perform the class duties that will besiege them during the next two years.

The Junior Executive Council proved itself a truly effective organization by directing a successful, active year for the Junior Class.

Fund raising for the coming senior year was the first obstacle. After a slight catastrophe, the annual magazine subscription drive was completed. Following this achievement, the Executive Council, which was comprised of elected representatives from English classes, went on to plan the social side of the junior year. After organizing each event, the Council had the results of its work presented by President Jim Bates at the Junior Class meetings. He was backed by Vice-President Nancy Clelland, whose duties included presiding over all committee meetings. Treasurer Carol Ellis kept accurate records of the income and expenditures of her class. Secretary Lois Tetor kept minutes for the class and Executive Council meetings, in addition to administering all class correspondence.

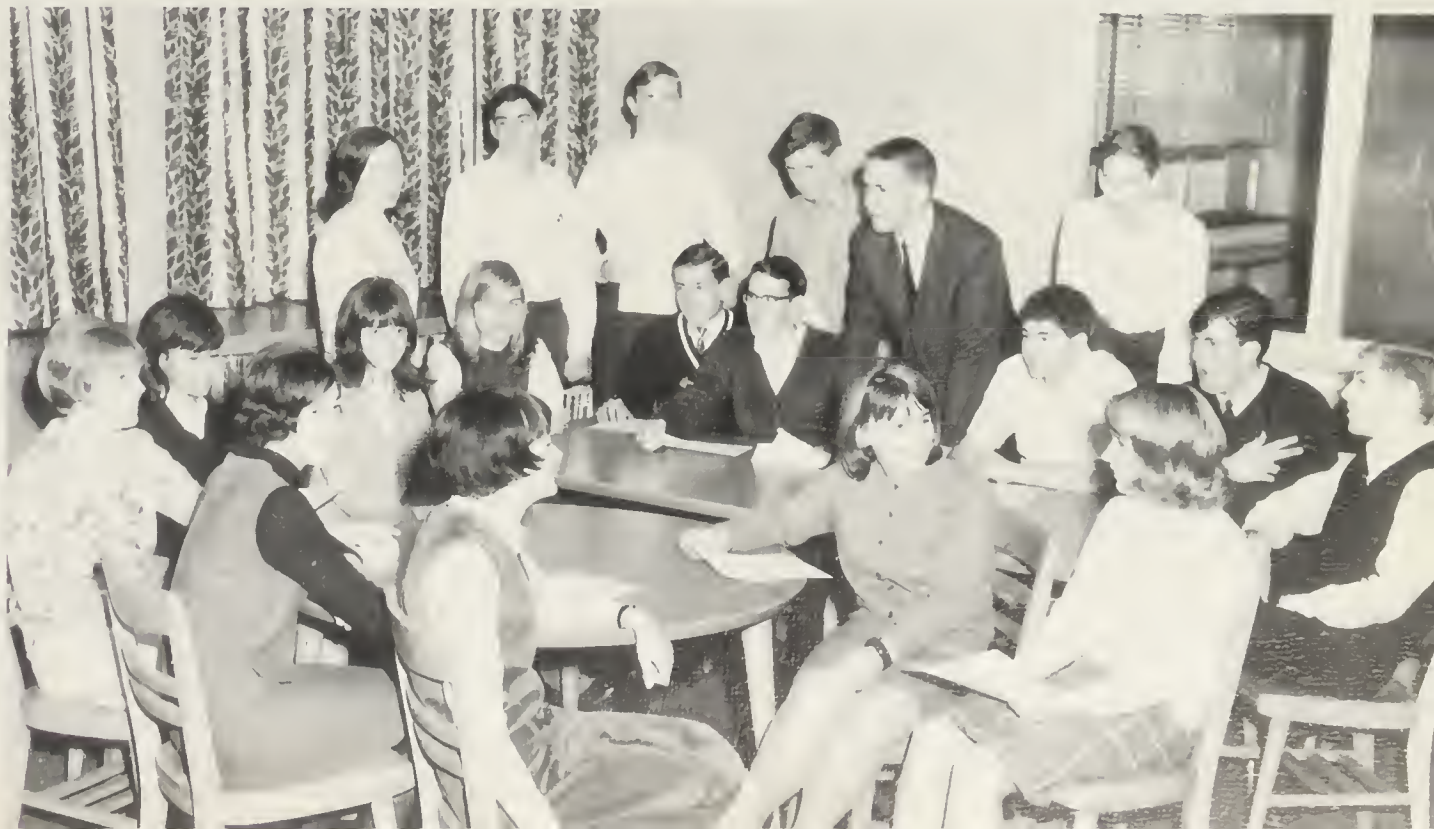

This busy organization, with the aid of various committees, helped with the selection of class rings, chose and supervised the class play, planned the all-important junior prom, and formulated plans for the long-awaited class trip to New York City. With these accomplishments behind them, the members of the Junior Executive Council have every assurance of continuing their success in their senior year.

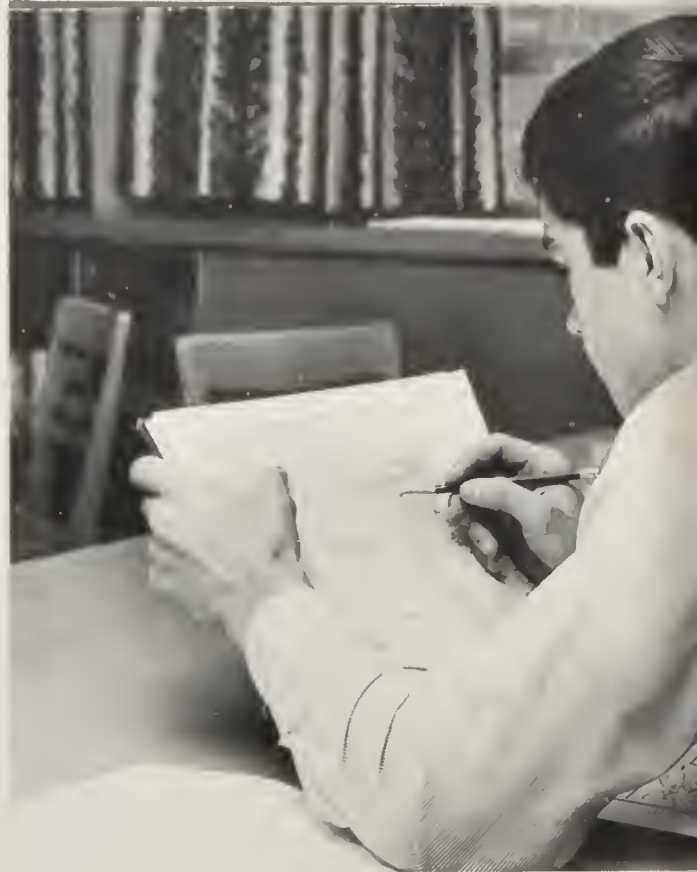

President Jim Bates discusses arrangements for the Junior Prom with the executive board.

THE CLASS OF 1966

PLANNERS OF AN EVENTFUL YEAR

The memorable activities which made the Senior year very special were organized by the Senior Executive Council. We the members of the Class of 1966 are indebted to our officers and the members of this student board who wisely represented and handled the funds of their fellow students.

President Bruce Ulmer proved himself to be an able administrator. He organized the countless committees which were necessary to stage such major events as the Class Play, the Senior Ball, the Class Trip, and the long-awaited Graduation Ceremony.

The Senior Class Play, Night Must Fall was behind us as early as November 1965. Due to some surprising Senior organizational talents, hitherto hidden from the public, the play was on schedule and a financial success as well.

With such a good start, the Senior plans gained momentum. At the class meetings Vice-President Ed Fisher, Treasurer Rick Groening, and Secretary Sandy Lisa helped Bruce to keep us posted on all developments. For our class gift to the school, we had the extreme good fortune to obtain ten original prints by the world-renowned, local artist Andrew Wyeth.

Another success was added to the impressive list when the Senior Ball was held on April 2. The theme April Love brought out the artistic talent and the romantic character of the Class of '66. It was, of course, the special dance of the year.

Almost a year's planning went into the Senior Class Trip to Washington, D.C. A subscription plan was offered whereby we could pay a quarter of the cost monthly beginning in January. Such foresight made it possible to prevent what might have been sudden financial disaster for hundreds of expense-burdened Seniors. The trip was successfully held on May 13 and 14, two more eventful, never-to-be forgotten days in our Senior year.

The active Executive Council members performed their most fulfilling duty when they assisted in the planning of the ceremony which promoted the willing Seniors to the status of graduates of Marple-Newtown Senior High School.

SUPPLEMENT

A wise man will hear, and will increase learning; and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels: To understand a proverb, and the interpretation; the words of the will, and their dark sayings. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

Proverbs 1:5-7

The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: and the knowledge of the holy is understanding.

Proverbs 9:10

SENIOR CLASS OF 1966

Class Motto:

The fear of the Lord is the beginning of Wisdom.

The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom: a good understanding have all they that do His commandments: His praise endureth forever.

Psalms 111:10

Then thou shalt understand the fear of the Lord, and find knowledge of God. For the lord giveth wisdom: out of His mouth cometh knowledge and understanding.

Proverbs 2:5-7

The one TRUE Church is composed of all believers in the Lord Jesus Christ. It is made up of all God's elect of converted people.

It is the Church which is dependent upon NO ministers on earth, however much we may value those who preach the gospel to its members.

The life of its members does not hang upon church-membership, nor baptism, nor upon partaking of the Lord's supper, although every true child of God does highly value these things.

In it there is no difference between Jew and Gentile, black and white. There are no distinctions such as Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Plymouth Brethren, Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Protestants, Baptists, etc.

It is the Church whose existence does not depend upon cathedrals, vestments, creeds, ceremonies, or any ordinances prepared by bishops, presbyters, nor synods.

The True CHURCH

The true Church has only one HEAD;
one Chief BISHOP;
and He is
JESUS CHRIST
EPHESIANS 5:23

Oh that all men would turn to the infallible word of God; and search the Scriptures as to these wonderful truths contained therein; and come to a SAVING KNOWLEDGE of the Lord Jesus Christ. For in the Bible are things written for every one to understand if they will accept Him as their own.

"Christ loved the Church and gave Himself for it."
EPHESIANS 5:25

This does not mean that He gave His life for a building, but for all who will believe in, and trust in Him, for THEY are the true Church for whom He died and rose again.

1st CORINTHIANS 15:3,4

THE FOUNDATION

"And I say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock will I build My Church."

MATTHEW 16:18

There is in the Greek a play upon the words, "thou art Peter (petros — literally a 'little rock') and upon this rock (Petra) I will build my church." He does not say or promise to build His church upon Peter, but UPON HIMSELF. This truth Peter is careful to tell us. See

1st PETER 2:4-9

"For OTHER FOUNDATION can no man lay than that IS laid, which IS JESUS CHRIST."

1st CORINTHIANS 3:11

Dear reader, this is the true Church to which a person MUST belong if he would be saved. A person may have the form of religion; the skin; even the shell of religion and yet not have eternal life. What ignorance prevails on this point. Men fancy that if they join this church or that church and become communicants, and go through certain forms that all must be right with their souls. This is utter delusion.
